

HOUSE OF TOWNEND

Brunello di Montalcino 2016, Col di Lamo

Price	£56.99
Code	BRUN045

Giovanna Neri and her daughter Diletta have produced a sensational, dynamic wine full of power, balance and finesse.

Tasting Notes:

Deep red with purple reflections, the bouquet is harmonious, with notes of plum and blackberry and finely woven oak aromas. The palate is brooding and rustic and packed with dark black fruits, forest floor and an underlying hint of cinnamon and cloves. The palate is deliciously plush and the finish soothing and long. An outstanding wine.

HOUSE OF TOWNEND

Specification

Vinification Manual selection of clusters picked up in perforated cases which are delicately emptied in the hopper of the destemmed machine. Stuck fermentation takes place without the addition of cultured yeasts, with long maceration of the pomace at a controlled temperature and with recurring processes of scalar pumping over. At the end of the malolactic fermentation wine is poured into wine barrels and wood casks for a minimum period of two years. Wine is then put into stainless steel tanks and finally bottled. The final stage is to give the wine additional aging (6 months), before bottling.

ABV 14%

Size 75cl

Drinking Window Drink now through to 2046

Country Italy

Region Tuscany

Type Red Wine

Grapes Sangiovese

Genres Fine Wine, Practising Organic, Vegan

Vintage 2019

Body Elegant, refined and supple

Producer Azienda Agricola Col di Lamo

Producer Overview The commercial farm Col di Lamo extends up to eight hectares in the territory of Montalcino. The property owner, Giovanna Neri, graduated in Law, got her passion for wine from her father and she is actually one of the most successful and valued winemakers.

Closure Type Cork

Food Matches Fabulous with fish