Producer Overview	Fanus and Martin Bruwer are 6th generation farmers in Robertson with a 190 hectare farm on the banks of the Breede River. They grow artichokes and citrus alongside 8 hectares of organically orientated Sauvignon Blanc on the same ancient dry stone riverbed soils. Until 2000, these grapes were delivered to one of the local co-ops. Fanus answered friends who repeatedly asked 'when are you going to make your own wine' by naming the winery Quando. The first two releases were only ever sold domestically, but with the excellent 2003 vintage and increased confidence, the two brothers were ready to look at entering the export markets. Read more online
